Responding to your e-mail of today.

Dear "Valerie Lagle" <ValerieLagle@dpss.lacounty.gov>

Thank you so much for all the effort, time, and energy during our hearing before JUDGE CRISOLOGO. Thank you for your commitments that you made during that hearing and how you have followed through on one or more of those commitments in your e-mail dated Mon, November 21, 2016 7:51 pm (ET).

I will use this very same document to forward to you the read receipts of those that sent those back to me. I will also use this very same document to do likewise of the email that I sent at the beginning of my hearing on May 23, 2016. I would suggest that you may want to read that document along with reviewing the evidentiary documents that were contained within it. I make that suggestion because I have already decided that each and every issue that has not been dealt with by any and all judges would potentially end up in me bringing a one billion dollar class action lawsuit against the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Services also known as AKA [LA DPSS].

I am cautiously optimistic about your affect in this process. I look forward to our continued communication with each other as we prepare for our postponed hearing.

With All Sincerity,
Robert Colaco
