Responding to your e-mail of today.

Dear "Valerie Lagle" <ValerieLagle@dpss.lacounty.gov>

Thank you so much for all the effort, time, and energy during our hearing before JUDGE CRISOLOGO. Thank you for your commitments that you made during that hearing and how you have followed through on one or more of those commitments in your e-mail dated Mon, November 21, 2016 7:51 pm (ET).

I will use this very same document to forward to you the read receipts of those that sent those back to me. I will also use this very same document to do likewise of the email that I sent at the beginning of my hearing on May 23, 2016. I would suggest that you may want to read that document along with reviewing the evidentiary documents that were contained within it. I make that suggestion because I have already decided that each and every issue that has not been dealt with by any and all judges would potentially end up in me bringing a one billion dollar class action lawsuit against the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Services also known as AKA [LA DPSS].

I am cautiously optimistic about your affect in this process. I look forward to our continued communication with each other as we prepare for our postponed hearing.

With All Sincerity,
Robert Colaco

I have had many problems making sure that documents are received by the judge or his office in time since this process began for me in December of 2015. It appears like a computer or computer program documents and to the assigned judge does not receive these documents in time. I am requesting that this process is adequately performed so that the judge receives all of these documents in time of the scheduled hearing on May 23, 2016. I am sending these documents before sending my "Pleading Papers" for the purpose of potentially not having a problem with your server not being able to receive these documents in their entirety. I may also refer to them in my "Pleading Papers" as backup evidence.

The name of the documents that I am attaching are:

Would you please give me a call when you have received this e-mail and it's attached documents.

If my understanding is incorrect or somehow flawed in anything that I have written please, please, please, let me know either in writing or on the phone.

I am doing something that I began to do in February 2016. That is to send a request through the email system for any receipt of when it was received as well as when it was accessed or read. Or, as the recipient of this e-mail if you would prefer to just respond to this email by hitting the reply button I will know that you have received it. I am doing so because I would like to know that the person receiving this e-mail has at the very least seen this e-mail.

Thank you for your continuing efforts on my behalf. I do appreciate it. I look forward to your phone message on Monday, May 23, 2016.
